DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Matthies et al. (US Pat. No. 6,370,019).

In regard to claims 1-22, Matthies et al. disclose a display (100) comprising: a plurality of substrates (see Figs. 6A-6C); a plurality of display elements formed on each substrate (Fig. 7, col. 12, lines 13-34); an integrated circuit block (702) attached to each substrate and coupled to at least one of display elements (704); and an integrator (134) to couple substrates to form a tiled display (see Fig. 7). Matthies et al. teach an electronic display structure comprising a display module and an area seal which includes a first substrate having a plurality of column electrodes and each of plurality of portions of a display material are coupled to one of a plurality of row electrodes and the area seal is formed upon the first substrate and encapsulates the row electrodes, the column electrodes, and the portions of display material. Furthermore, the electronic display structure includes a circuit module including plurality of signal lines each corresponding to one of the plurality of row and column electrodes also includes a transparent front plate (320) which may be, a float glass plate, transparent column electrodes (322) are formed on the plate (320) by depositing thin bands of transparent conductor, such as indium-tin oxide (ITO), using well known process and the red, green and blue OLED materials or other display materials (324) and (326) are deposited on top of the column electrodes to define the active area of the pixel (see Fig. 3). Matties further teaches an entire display including tiles (102) may be sealed using a display seal includes a front plate (902), a back plate (904) and a seal (906) therebetween and the tiles (102) are oriented so the front glass of the tiles (902) are adjacent the front plate (902) of the display seal and each tile may include circuitry to provide signals to drive its respective pixels and the shape of the tiles is most typically square or rectangular, however the shape can be any shape that can be tiled to form a larger display. Thus, the display seal need not accommodate any circuitry to providing a signal path from tiles within the display seal to signal source outside the display seal (Fig. 9), as described above which shown in (Fig. 7) with regard to an OLED display, as known to those skilled in the art, the teaching of Matties are generally applicable to other display technologies (col. 9, lines 52-59).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Pierson, Greene et al. are made of record to show various type of Tiled Flat-Panel Displays.
